Report: Art in City Hall

A new exhibit titled Winter opened with a reception for the artists and their art on November 30. We had a nice turnout. All of the people who came to the reception also viewed the lovely work by Northfield K-12 students featuring watercolor, still life, and pastel, on level 2.

I thank Kathy Rush and Teresa Jenson for designing a poster and posting it plus publicizing the show and event on the City webpage.

This exhibit drew applications from 5 area artists who have not previously shown their work in an Art in City Hall exhibit. 14 artists exhibited in Winter, in 7 different mediums: drawing, painting (including encaustic or bees wax), textile, print, photography, collage, and oil pastel.

The exhibit runs through May 2, 2018.

As I mentioned last month, I will be curating particular types of shows including Carleton & St. Olaf faculty & emeriti who live in Northfield; an all abstract exhibit; a photography exhibit, etc. Also, I hope to have a guest curator or 2 in the future.
