Subject: Mayor and City Council Compensation

Action Requested:

The Northfield City Council moves to hold second reading of Ordinance No. 959 - Setting Mayor and City Council Compensation for 2015 and 2016.

Summary Report:

Mayor Graham as part of the Council work plan discussion requested the City Council consider adjusting the compensation for the mayor and city council positions in 2014 and 2015.

The last compensation adjustment for the mayor and city council was in 2005/06 as part of a two year adjustment, see attached ordinance. As a result, the mayor is currently paid $9,600 per year and councilors $7,200 per year.

During this eight year time period, inflation has increased by 18%. The wage range for city employees has been adjusted by 11.5%, plus some step increases. Based on this information it is recommended that the Council adjust the mayor and council compensation in 2015 by 11.5% and in 2016 by 2% (inflation rate 2013 to 2014) as presented in the attached proposed ordinance.

During the Council work session on June 10, there was discussion of adjusting the mayor's compensation to a higher level and delaying implementation of the new compensations rates to 2017/18.

Alternative Options:

Adjust compensation by a larger or smaller amount than proposed or make no adjustment.

Financial Impacts:

The additional cost in 2015 will be $6,072 and $2,134 in 2016.

Tentative Timelines: Under Minnesota State law compensation for the mayor and city council has to be acted on before a municipal election and can only take effective after the election.
