

Art in City Hall
June 10, 2019

I hear comments about the artwork in City Hall, and I know people are looking. In fact two friends along with another person I had not met, sought me out to tell me how much they enjoy the exhibits there. It seems people are beginning to go there just to see the art. Lovely.

The opening for the exhibit, "The State of Water," will be held next Tuesday, June 11, from 5:00 – 6:00 p.m., the hour prior to the City Council meeting. The first time the opening was timed to run the hour before the C.C. meeting was for the previous exhibit, "The Art of the Print." Several Council members came a few minutes early to view the exhibit. We feel this timing is best to draw the attention of the Council.

The opening and exhibit have been posted on the ACC page, on the City of Northfield website, as well as on the Northfield Arts Guild's Facebook page. A special e-mail invitation went to all artists who have exhibited in City Hall since the inception of the program.

Signs will be posted near the stairways, noting the 2nd floor gallery featuring work by students in the Northfield Schools.

The exhibit runs through December 31, 2019.
