

Art in City Hall Report
December 9, 2019

We are approaching the deadline for submitting work to the “Beauty of the Count” exhibit, which opens in January. Wendell Arneson has committed a piece as has David Lefkowitz. A few other artists I know plan to submit work, as do I.

The call for artists has been re-posted both in English and Spanish on the Northfield Arts Guild Webpage and their Call to Artists Newsletter. It has also been posted on the ACC website and in the Link Newsletter.

Posters are, or will be, placed around town and in the churches, especially St. Dominic.

It looks like an exciting exhibit!

Hopes abundant for a thorough response from Northfield residents when the Census comes around.

This is my final meeting as an ACC member. My tenure has been fulfilling. My immediate task, when I joined the ACC, was to turn the first and second floor hallways into galleries. Tim Madigan, then City Administrator, was enthused about the idea. I worked with him to realize his and the ACC’s dream of Art in City Hall. I look forward to continuing to work on the Art in City Hall exhibits with Heather.
